The trail climbs gently alongside of Mount Arsenale and then down the spectacular Portule Valley, one of the most beautiful valley of the Altopiano Plateau, almost untouched, marked only by ruins left by the 1st World War. We are within an outdoor museum of endless dimensions. You can make a short detour to the site of Campogallina, one of the most interesting areas of the wider outdoor museum named "walk of peace."

The climb to the top of Mount Portule is richly rewarded with an opening horizon that allows the eye to admire some of the highest peaks of the plateau (Mount 12 and Mount Ortigara) and in addition the full view of the Eastern Alps (Dolomites).

Half of the way with a short cut there will be a challenging detour to reach the top of Cima Manderiolo from where a great view will allow to admire Lake Levico and Caldonazzo and a good part of Valsugana Valley.
